Current Working Function: As a Systems Engineering professional, my primary responsibility is to lead the system design definition and align customer expectations throughout all project phases. I serve as the key technical interface to the customer for all systems engineering-related topics. My role includes the meticulous decomposition of system requirements via architecture to create specific requirements for the next lower level. A critical part of my work is to define and maintain the interfaces within the system architecture, while also supporting safety and security engineering by aligning the architecture to meet all necessary requirements. I ensure complete traceability of all requirements, including safety and security goals, both to the system level above and below, as well as to verification and validation activities. I am responsible for performing system technical risk assessments and system impact analysis, and I plan and control the creation of all systems engineering work products within the assigned system level. Finally, I plan and execute the systems engineering MLC (Multi-Level Configuration) in accordance with the defined project schedule.
